37. In relation to the request of the European Law Students’ Association (ELSA) for the granting of observer status to the Council and to the CAJ, the Consultative Committee concluded that, at that stage, it was not possible to agree that ELSA had demonstrated its “competence in areas of direct relevance in respect of matters governed by the UPOV Convention”.

“Is it possible to obtain protection of a variety on the basis of its DNA-profile?”

“For a variety to be protected, it needs to be clearly distinguishable from all existing varieties on the basis of characteristics that are physically expressed, e.g. plant height, time of flowering, fruit color, disease resistance etc. The DNA-profile is not the basis for obtaining the protection of a variety, although this information may be used as supporting information.

“A more detailed explanation is provided in the FAQ ‘Does UPOV allow molecular techniques (DNA profiles) in the examination of Distinctness, Uniformity and Stability (“DUS”)?’

“See also:

“What are the requirements for protecting a new plant variety?”

45. The Consultative Committee agreed that the proposed FAQ on how the UPOV system of plant variety protection contributes to the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), as set out in paragraph 20 of document CC/92/6, be circulated to the Consultative Committee with an invitation to make proposals to revise the text and to provide examples. On the basis of the inputs received, a new draft would be prepared for consideration by the Consultative Committee at its ninety-fourth session in October 2017.

46. The Consultative Committee agreed that it would not be feasible to prepare an updated version of the Impact Study in the current format and agreed that individual members of the Union should be encouraged to undertake their own studies and provide the resulting information to the Office of the Union. It also agreed that the Office of the Union should develop videos to illustrate various benefits of the UPOV system of plant variety protection.

47. The Consultative Committee noted the report on the use of web conferencing and e-workshops as presented in the Annex to document CC/92/6.
